THE FEMALE DOCTOR.

A St. Louis doctor factory recently turned out a dozen female doctors. As long as the female doctors were confined to one or two in the whole country, and those were only experimental, the Sun held its peace, and did not complain, but now that the colleges are engaged in producing female doctors as a business, we must protest, and in so doing will give a few reasons why female doctors will not prove a paying branch of industry. In the first place, if they doctor anybody, it must be a woman, and three-fourths of the women had rather have a male doctor. Suppose these colleges turn out female doctors until there are as many of them as there are male doctors, what have they got to practice on? A man, if there is nothing the matter with him, might call in a female doctor, but if he is as sick as a horse, and when a man is sick he is as sick as a horse, the last thing he would have around would be a female doctor. And why? Because, when a man wants a female doctoring around him, he wants to feel well. He don't want to be bilious, or feverish, with his mouth tasting like cheese, and his eyes bloodshot, when a female is looking him over and over and taking an account of stock. Of course, these female doctors are all good looking, and if one of them came into a sick room where a man was in bed, with chills, and was as cold as a wedge, and she should sit up close to the side of the bed and take hold of his hand, his pulse would run up to a hundred and fifty and she would prescribe for a fever when he had chills. Then if he died she could be arrested for malpractice. O, you can't fool us on female doctors. A man who has been sick and had male doctors, knows just how he would feel to have a female doctor come tipping in and throw her fur lined cloak over a chair, take off her hat and gloves and throw them on a lounge, and come to the bed with a pair of marine blue eyes, with a twinkle in the corner, and look him in the wild, changeable eyes and ask him to run out his tongue. Suppose he knew his tongue was coated so it looked like a yellow Turkish towel, do you suppose he would want to run out five or six inches of the lower end of it and let that female doctor put her finger on it to see how fur it was? Not much. He would put that tongue up into his cheek and would not let her see for twenty-five cents admission. We have all seen doctors put their hands under the bed-clothes and feel of a man's feet, to see if they were cold. If a female doctor should do that it would give a man cramps in the legs. A male doctor can put his hand on a man's stomach, and liver and lungs, and ask him if he feels any pain there, but if a female doctor should do the same thing it would make him sick, and he would want to get up and kick himself for employing a female doctor. O, there is no use of talking, it would kill a man. Now, suppose a man had heart disease, and a female doctor should want to listen to the beating of his heart. She would lay her left ear on his left breast, so that her eyes and rosy mouth would be looking right in his face, and her wavy hair would be scattered all around there, getting tangled in the buttons of his night shirt. Don't you suppose his heart would get in about twenty extra beats to the minute? You bet! And she would smile—and show her pearly teeth, and her ripe lips would be working as though she were counting the beats, she would think she was trying to whisper to him—and well, what would he be doing all this time? If he was not dead yet, which would be a wonder, his left hand would brush the hair away from her temples, and kind of stay there to keep the hair away and his right hand would get sort of nervous and move around to the back of her head, and when she had counted the heart beats a few minutes and was raising her head he would draw the sheet up to him and kiss her once for luck, if he was as bilious as a Jersey swamp angel, and have her charge it in the bill. And then a reaction would set in, and he would be as weak as a cat, and she would have to fan him, and rub his head until he got over being nervous, and then make out her prescription after he got asleep. No; all of a man's symptoms change when a female doctor is practicing on him, and she would kill him dead.

The Sun is a woman's rights paper, and believes in allowing women to do anything that they can do as well as men, and is in favor of paying them as well as men are paid for the same work, taking all things into consideration, but it is opposed to their trifling with human life by trying to doctor a great stranger. These colleges are doing a great wrong in preparing these female doctors for the war-path, and we desire to enter a protest in behalf of twenty million men who could not stand the pressure. Peck's Sun.

Paper plates as well as paper napkins are in vogue in Berlin restaurants. Each plate is used but once. This is something after the custom of first class confectioners in this country, who send out their pies baked on thin wooden dishes, which their customers are not expected to return.

By means of a strictly vegetable diet, Dr. Hureau de Villeneuve states that he has succeeded in ridding himself of attacks of gouty rheumatism, with which he had been afflicted for years, and of which several of his ancestors had died.

A pressing necessity—fix iron.

HOW THEY DO IN MUNICH.

Fancy the horror of the wife of a distinguished English physician, lawyer, or clergyman, if you told her to take those well-educated young ladies, her daughters, for an afternoon to the gardens of Tivoli or Brunthal, there to drink beer, or coffee, and industriously knit stockings until the husband and father should join them, and all sup together in the open air; or else, to return at 7 o'clock with their knitting-needles safely packed away in little baskets on their arms, to prepare the supper at home! Very frequently there is music in these gardens, and in the English Garden in fine weather the band plays almost every afternoon, and I doubt whether the well educated young English ladies aforesaid would be at all better able to appreciate the skill of the performers—or indeed half so well—as the quiet looking Bavarians. Who would suspect that quiet looking man sitting opposite us, with an enormous glass of beer before him, to be an excellent musician and composer? Near him is a tall, sentimental looking figure, with a broad-brimmed black felt hat, curled up on one side; after the fashion of the ancient cavaliers; he wears his hair long, in artistic style, disdains beer, and pours out his Rhine wine in a graceful, melancholy manner; He is a skillful house painter and decorator, but is otherwise unknown to fame. To our left is a whole family of blooming girls with their portly mamma. They appear to have many acquaintances here, and not a few admirers; for the Herr Papa is one of the most influential burghers in the town, and whole chests of linen are known to be already prepared for the dowry of the girls. Students with their gayly colored caps and sash ribbons, greet them most respectfully, young officers in light blue uniform, and fearfully ugly cloth head-gear, are full of solicitude as to the health of the Frau Mamma, and little Hans—of whom they hear, to their grief, that he fell out of the window the other day. But while they are exercising their tongues in this way, an unpretending-looking young civilian is filled with just indignation at the neglect of the waiters, who allow the young ladies to sit so long without beer. He fixes his hat more firmly on his head, vanishes among the crowd and quickly returns with a captured waiter, who listens to the unlimited order for beer, black bread, butter and salt, and soon provides entertainment for the whole party. And now the young civilian reaps his reward, for he has managed to ensconce himself in a corner between Grethe and Minchen—to the utter defeat of the Army and University—and is trying to make up his mind as to which of the two girls is the prettier, when his attention is drawn, by the smiles and nods of his fair neighbors, to a table near, where a pretty, well-dressed young wife is seated with her husband and baby of two years old. Baby is thirsty, so mamma has calmly stood him on the table, and is holding the great glass beer-jug, with its pewter top, to the lips of her offspring, who appears strongly to approve of the beverage, and sucks away vigorously, to the great delight of papa.—Temple Bar.

A shorthand competition was recently opened in England, the system being Pitman's and the object to inscribe as many words as possible on one side of an English postal card, the writing to be legible to the naked eye. The first prize in this competition was awarded to G. E. Davidson, the chief shorthand and correspondence clerk to Peck, Frean & Co., whose postal-card contained 32,363 words, including the whole of Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," an essay on John Morley, and half of Holcroft's "Road to Ruin."

A gentleman in Georgia has used the same gold pen for twenty-five years. In that time it has been used in signing bonds or drawing checks or notes aggregating over $50,000,000 in value. It has drawn the papers by which railroads were built, factories established, hotels put up, and employment given to thousands of men.

Some one has undertaken the business of lion-breeding at Bond, Algeria, in order to supply menageries and zoological gardens with specimens of the king of beasts, for which there is a great and growing demand. The extirpation of the lion in a wild state in Algeria, from a variety of causes, is only a question of a very short time.

At a recent Parsee wedding at Bombay seven youthful couples were united, the eldest bridegroom being only fifteen years of age, and the youngest sixteen months, while the youngest bride was only nine months old. The wedding-knot was tied while each child was seated on its mother's lap.

Peck's Sun has been sending an illuminating ray into the millinery business, and it finds "that thirty cents' worth of wire and forty cents' worth of feathers can be stirred up and sold for twenty-five dollars."

Women are generally in favor of corporal punishment. They never go without their switches.

A young man who knows says that from court to caught is but a short step.

A man may always be right, yet in going for the train he may be left.

FINGER TAILS.

There is popularly supposed to be some poison communicated by an abrasion of the skin by the finger nail or when it comes in contact with a wound. We question this. Unless a person has very decided acrofulous diathesis or unless the system is greatly diseased with syphilis there ought to be nothing in the hard tissues of the body to communicate disease. What to our mind more likely is this: People are not particular enough about keeping the finger nails clean. Those of refined tastes and who belong to what is termed "good society" take pride in keeping the nails free from anything which discolors them. But this kind of material gathering under the nails which make them look disagreeable is not as apt to contain some insidious poison as something which may not exhibit itself to the visual organs at all. The bright blade of the lancet when it looks free from any corrosion and when it seems to be entirely clean, if introduced beneath the skin may convey a poisonous inoculation. In various ways the finger nails may come in contact with transparent fluids which, brought in contact with the blood, by an abrasion, would cause a sore—perhaps obstinate ulceration. These poisonous matters may be gathered up by contact with the various objects we take hold of, for we are constantly handling things which have passed through the hands of hundreds of others. In public conveyances especially, the hands grasp and find rest where thousands of hands have been before. A person having a cutaneous affection will be very likely to have his finger nails charged with the poison for the reason that he is so often scratching himself. There are some occupations which are liable to charge the nails with irritating matters. Both for the purpose of entire cleanliness and for complete safety every person should use a nail brush and apply it thoroughly as often as twice a day, while his more frequent use would be even still better.—Health Monthly.

I heard a conversation recently between a young lady in society and the reporter of a leading society paper. It was at a charity ball; the girl was pretty and elegantly attired. She went up to the young man and said: "Now, don't you put my name in the paper, nor tell what I had on. I have worn this dress once before and it's horribly old. I was going to have a French dress from Worth's, but it did not get here, so I had to wear this; now mind, do not put my name in the paper, but if you do, send me six."

THE SPIDER.—It is accounted in the North of England and the South of Scotland unlucky to kill a spider. This arises from the well-known story about King Robert, the Bruce. Having made six abortive attempts on the crown of Scotland, he was hiding in a cave. He saw a spider six times fail in trying to fix its web. It tried the seventh time, and succeeded. Bruce tried a second time, and freed his country at Bannockburn. No Scotsman, let alone a Bruce, would kill a spider.

This is the way a lady writes to the papers concerning social ostracism: "So long as an unmarried woman has a moderately comfortable home and work, merely to increase her stock of white satin slippers, her social position remains unimpaired; but let that home be broken up; let that same young woman from dire necessity continue that same occupation of trade in order to earn her daily bread, and she is immediately beyond the pale."

The Albany Law Journal has discovered the main cause of the late William Cullen Bryant leaving the bar. In an action for slander, for saying that one had "burned his own stone," he had neglected to insert the proper intendment that it was to be a fraud insurers. He naturally lost the case, as amendments were not then in vogue, it was irretrievably lost.

It is said on good authority that one ought to be generous even to his enemies. So thought the kind-hearted gentleman, who said to the burglar: "My friend, I haven't much to give you, but such as I have you are welcome to. Here is a loaded revolver, and you can have three out of the six barrels just as well as not."

An experienced mason says: "A man will eat soggy biscuits twice a week without a complaint when his girl invites him out to tea, but when the girl becomes his wife, if there is the faintest suspicion of salaratus in them, the neighbors will think the district school is out for recess by the racket he makes."

Miss Kate Smith, an inmate of the Union Home for Old Ladies in Philadelphia, after three years' labor, has completed a quilt containing 55,552 pieces. She has been blind from infancy, but threaded every needle herself, and used 600 spools of thread in the work.

Archbishop Laing, of Santa Fe, is in better luck as to worldly affairs than most of the clerical profession. He owns a gold mine which yields $1,000 from two bucketfuls of ore. One nugget recently taken out proved to be worth $2,000.

The best manner of averting an injury is not to imitate the person that did it.

CRIMINAL RECORD.

We doubt if there is a county in the State of California that exhibits a more damnable record of, to use a mild term, homicides than Mono, and the odium attached to it, in this respect, is well-merited. And why? During the past two years seventeen violent deaths by unlawful means have occurred, and yet, thus far, after depleting the treasury of $50,000, and summoning 1,300 jurymen—subjected to great expense of time and money, not a conviction has taken place, and in one instance only has stern justice been administered, and that was the hanging of DeRoche by the good people of Bodie. It is a foregone conclusion that nothing short of a miracle can lawfully convict a murderer in this county, and the acquittal of Hawkins is an incentive for the people of Mono county to hang cold-blooded murderers instantaneously and believe they will do it.

In regard to the case of Sam Chung, we take issue with the Bodie Free Press—not from sympathy for the prisoner, however, for we have none for murderers, but because he has been tried twice, at an expense of over $10,000, and the jury failed to agree, in both instances being six for conviction and six for acquittal. This case has been thoroughly discussed, and it is useless to attempt to get another jury in this county, and it would bankrupt us to try it in another county. This, in connection with the fact that the hitherto prolific fountain-head of "intelligent jurymen" has been drained by the "efficient" Fire Department of Bodie, makes it foolish to expend more money or time upon such a hopeless case. Under these circumstances we trust that the Grand Jury and Board of Supervisors will recommend that the case be dismissed.

The New York Herald says: Several watering-place hotels are preparing to follow the example of Corbin at Manhattan Beach, in exclusion of the Hebrews. It cites one of a dozen advertisements of first-class hotels, appearing in to-day's papers, notifying Hebrews not to apply. This smacks too much of old Puritan times, when they hanged Quakers.

The Tucson (A. T.) Citizen says: A town of importance is likely to spring up four miles north of El Paso, New Mexico. Here the Southern Pacific Company have located eighteen blocks of land; the Texas Pacific Company the same amount, and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Company were at last accounts making a like selection.

The President has appointed the following Government Directors of the Union Pacific Railway Company for the ensuing year: S. T. Everett, Cleveland, O.; R. H. Baker, Racine, Wis.; Chas. B. Peck, Port Huron, Mich.; Geo. W. First, Omaha, Neb.; and A. Kountze, New York.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

TRIAL OF HAWKINS.—The trial of Thomas E. Hawkins, for the murder of Henry Robbins, occupied the attention of Judge Wiggin from Tuesday morning until late in the afternoon of Thursday. On Tuesday the jury box was filled, and the examination of witnesses commenced before the following jurors: Henry Meyer, Thomas Edwards, R. P. Foulke, W. A. Irwin, W. A. Taylor, R. Hammell, T. M. Glover, P. C. Costello, Joseph Hunt, John Striker, J. H. Vincent and A. Hinton. The testimony was all in by 2 o'clock, and after a short recess arguments commenced. Judge McQuaid opened on behalf of the people and briefly addressed the jury. General Kittrell followed for the prisoner, and spoke just two hours, making a strong plea for the acquittal of Hawkins on the grounds that the killing of Robbins was an act of "self defense." McQuaid followed and spoke one hour and twenty minutes, closing with a strong appeal to the jury to do their duty and show the people that murderers can be punished in Mono county without the intervention of Vigilance Committees. Judge Wiggin then delivered his charge to the jurors, who then retired to their room in charge of Sheriff Taylor. They remained out until about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, when they returned a verdict of "not guilty." Hawkins was thereupon discharged, and before noon he was on his way to Reno, accompanied by his brother. Our people were much surprised when morning came to find Hawkins on the streets a free man. The verdict was unexpected, as a disagreement of the jury was confidently looked for, as it was stated on our streets that there were at least two men on the jury who would hang it, but they happened to take the crowd with them—the jury standing 9 to 3, and afterwards 10 to 2. The charge of the Judge was very clear as to murder and manslaughter, and it was the general impression that if any verdict was agreed upon, it would be manslaughter, but a full acquittal was not dreamed of. It is said that the two obstinate jurymen succumbed at last to stop further litigation, their experience teaching them that one disagreement would lead to others, and a consequent acquittal. Had a verdict of manslaughter been returned our citizens would have been satisfied, and it is not to be wondered at that the jurymen have heard many expressions of indignation over their action. And thus has ended another farce.

WELL CONTESTED.—The trial of Hawkins was well conducted, both by John A. McQuaid, for the people, and by General Kittrell, for the prisoner. Hawkins seemed quite unconcerned during most of the trial, but during McQuaid's address to the jury he looked quite dejected, and well he might, as he sharply criticised the testimony of the principal witnesses for the defense, and the verdict probably surprised no one more than it did Hawkins himself.

Josh Billings says he never knew a dog of any breed whatsoever to take hydrophobia after he had been thoroughly vaccinated with buckshot.

Now that Dr. Anderson has vaccinated all the Indians in this part of the country, we would like to have Dr. Robertson or H. L. Childs, the crack shots of Bodie, visit Bridgeport and vaccinate the entire canine family of this town.

GRAND JURY.—A Grand Jury was empaneled on Monday: J. K. Dennison, Foreman; Ben Eggleston, D. Hays, E. D. Ebb, L. Hinton, H. L. Leavitt, J. P. McLaughlin, G. S. Thompson, J. Kalmes, J. M. Martin, P. Hughes, E. W. Taylor, W. T. Elliott, C. Anton, J. Laraway, H. D. Neil, Josiah Brown, G. L. Porter, J. F. Byrne, Secretary.

SAM CHUNG.—A petition is being signed by our best citizens, asking for the discharge of Sam Chung, who has twice been tried for the murder of a Mexican near Bodie in July last, the jury disagreeing both times. Another trial will result in another disagreement or an acquittal, as a conviction, we honestly believe, cannot be had.

FRUIT.—Fruit dealers and consumers are invited to peruse the advertisement of C. M. Silva & Son, the well-known fruit growers of Newcastle. An acquaintance of 25 years with the senior Silva enables us to cordially recommend this firm to dealers in fruit and consumers thereof.

OUR MAIL.—The mail from Bodie now arrives here between 9 and 10 o'clock a. m., and leaves at 1 o'clock p. m.—an arrangement that is highly satisfactory to our citizens, as it enables us to answer letters the day they are received.

DECLARATIONS.—James S. Cain and Jas. Stewart, both natives of Canada, have filed with County Clerk Miller, their declarations of intention to become citizens of this "barren" country.

POMEROY.—On Saturday last E. Gurney and H. Donnell each lost a cow by poison from eating wild parsnip.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.—The Board of Supervisors will meet in regular session on Monday next.

PERSONAL.—Miss Minnie Dikeman, of Bodie is visiting Miss May Temple, of this place.

FIRE.—The weather is as fine as silk.

Charge to the Grand Jury.

The following is Judge Wiggin's charge to the Grand Jury impaneled on Monday, and now in session:

GRAND JURY OF THE GRAND JURY.—Under the provisions of Section 8, Article One, of the State of California, a grand jury is required to be drawn and summoned at least once a year in each county of the State. In compliance with such requirement, you have been summoned from the body of citizens of this county, to exercise the grave and important functions which necessarily devolve upon a grand jury; and before entering upon the discharge of your duties, it is proper for the Court to point out to you, briefly, the scope and extent of your authority, and to outline your duties in the position to which you have been called.

You will diligently inquire into and true presentment make of all public offenses committed or triable in this county of which you shall have or can obtain legal evidence; you will present no person through malice, hatred or ill will, nor leave any one unpresented through favor, fear or affection, or for any reward, or the promise or hope thereof; but in all your presentments you will present the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

It is your duty to inquire into the case of every person imprisoned in the jail of the county on a criminal charge, and not indicted; to inquire into the condition and management of the public prisons within the county; and into the willful and corrupt misconduct of all public officers within the county; and the Court charges you especially that it is your duty to make a careful and complete examination of the books, records and accounts of all officers of the county, and especially those pertaining to the revenue, and to report thereon. In any such investigation you are entitled at all reasonable times to free access to the public prisons, and to the examination, without charge, of all public records of or within the county.

In the investigation of charges, you will receive none but legal evidence, and the best evidence in degree, to the exclusion of hearsay or secondary evidence. You are not bound to hear evidence for a defendant, but it is your duty to weigh all the evidence submitted to you, and if you have reason to believe that other evidence within your reach will explain away a charge, you should order such evidence to be produced. Your duty as to finding an indictment is plain and simple. If all the evidence before you, taken together, and unexplained or uncontradicted, would, in your judgment, warrant a conviction by a trial jury, you must find an indictment, leaving the ultimate fact of the absolute guilt or innocence of the accused to the determination of another tribunal.

You may, at all reasonable times, ask the advice of the Court or District Attorney. The District Attorney may appear before you and assist in the examination of witnesses; but no person must be present during the expression of your opinions, or while giving your votes upon any matter before you.

Twelve out of your number must concur in finding an indictment, and when so found it must be indorsed "A true bill" and the indictment must be signed by your foreman.

Lastly, you will keep your own counsel as to your deliberations and proceedings, and you will not, except when required in the due course of judicial proceedings, disclose the testimony of any witness examined before you, nor anything said in the jury room, nor the manner in which any of your number may have voted. Your attention is particularly called to this requirement of secrecy, and any infraction of this instruction, if brought to the ears of the Court, will be punished as a contempt of Court.

Commending the above matters to your careful attention, you will now enter upon your duties.
